

the circumferential connecting struts being oriented generally perpendicular relative to the longitudinal struts.